Letter

Sept. 20, 1907.

Professor L. M. Hoskins
Stanford University, Cal.

My dear Professor Hoskins:

I am sending you by this mail as a registered package a copy of the results of the retriangulation of the Coast Range region by the Coast and Geodetic Survey, in the shape of a paper by Hayford and Baldwin. Mr. Gilbert suggested that you could perhaps aid us in the interpretation of the data contained in the paper, and has, I understand, written you in that behalf.

In forwarding the paper, I must advise you that the general report is now in the printer's hands and we are holding a gap open for this paper of Hayford's and for some comment in the way of interpretation of the results, so it is highly desirable that the report should be returned to my hands at the earliest possible moment, to be forwarded to the printer. I regret having to hurry you in any way, but we received the results of the coast survey very much later than we anticipated, and have gone ahead on the assumption that we would receive it earlier, and it is now a matter of urgency that we get this particular section of the report in the printer's hands at the earliest possible date. Kindly therefore give the matter your immediate attention, and greatly oblige

Yours sincerely
